Neighborhood hit by grain dust

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Grain dust from a company located at the Tri-City Regional Port blanketed more than a dozen mobile homes and vehicles in the Parktowner West trailer home court adjacent to Illinois Route 3 late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

The dust was pulverized grain used in animal feed, said Paul Wellhausen, president of Bulk Services Corp., the company responsible for the dust.

Wellhausen said a stiff breeze blew the dust eastward as it was being loaded from a railroad car into a barge.

City Inspector Vince Serum, who got two complaints from residents of the trailer park Wednesday, said they were the first complaints he had received about the dust.

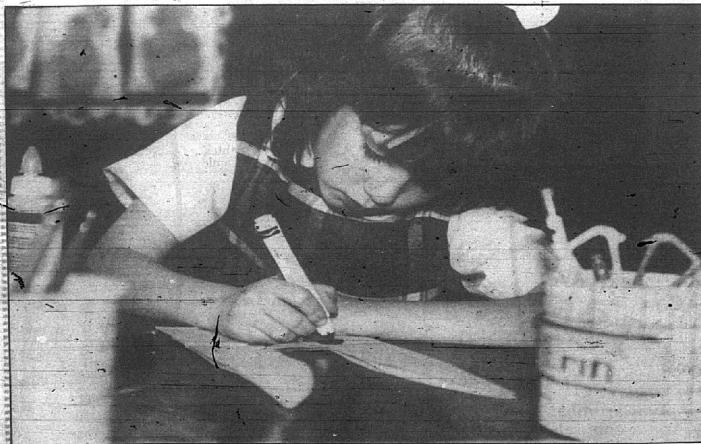

But Luther Paul, a resident of the park, said it happens about four times a year.

Wellhausen said he wanted to apologize to those who were inconvenienced by the dust.

He said maintenance was being performed on the equipment that normally loads such products, so the company had to use alternate equipment.

"It's not a product we handle very often. But it's obviously something we're going to have to evaluate. We're looking into finding out exactly what happened. We can't say for sure right now."

Wellhausen said the dust was neither "corrosive nor caustic." He added, "Human beings could eat it."

Haine: Goals met in trial

By Ed Gurney
Staff writer

Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine said his office's objectives were achieved when a man from El Salvador was convicted of two counts of reckless homicide in connection with an incident in Collinsville Dec. 17 in which two people were killed.

Jose Ramon Pleitz-Orantes, 30, was convicted Tuesday by Associate Judge Lawrence Keshen of reckless homicide and possession of a stolen vehicle after a brief trial in which both sides agreed to settle the case.

Two residents, 14-year-old Wade Brake of Collinsville and 37-year-old Roland Cox of Pontoon Beach, were killed when a pickup truck driven by Pleitz-Orantes went off icy St. Louis Road at Farmers' Market.

The vehicle he was driving had been stolen in Belleville an hour before the crash. "In my position he had to be sentenced to some prison time and he had to be deported with a felony record. Those two conditions have been met," Haine said.

Negotiations had been held between Haine's office and Pleitz-Orantes' attorney, Assistant Public Defender Neil Hawkins.

Sentencing would take place for about two months with up to the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service whether to deport Pleitz-Orantes.

Assistant State's Attorney Randy Massey said he will recommend two years in prison plus probation.

Pleitz-Orantes, who has been held since the accident, would be due for release from the Madison County Jail in September.

Haine said Pleitz-Orantes has agreed to cooperate with attorneys for the victims' families on lawsuits in connection with the accident.

Haine said the families approved of the outcome of the case.

The state's attorney wrote letters Tuesday asking the immigration service to investigate Pleitz-Orantes.

"It is, in fact, true that this individual is present in the United States illegally. I would ask that you do whatever is necessary to see that he is deported immediately upon the completion of his sentence," Haine said.

"I believe that the citizens of Madison County have the right to be free from crimes perpetuated upon them by persons who are in this country illegally," he wrote.

If Pleitz-Orantes returns to the U.S. during probation, he could be jailed.

Parents discuss discipline

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

VENICE — Only 12 people attended a special meeting of the Venice PTA on Tuesday night to discuss ways of disciplining students in Venice, but those in attendance said they had a useful exchange of ideas.

The meeting was held at the Boy Scout Home next to the Madison Legion.

The suggestions discussed will be presented at an April 16 meeting of the District 3 School Board Discipline Committee. Suggestions focused heavily on school suspension and detention.

PTA Vice President Cynthia Crawford said she thought the meeting yielded many good suggestions. Among those suggestions:

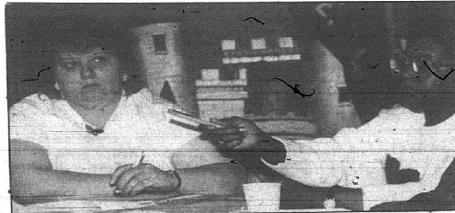

• In-school suspensions, whereby unruly students would be segregated from other students.

• After-school detentions ranging from one to four hours.

• A school newspaper that would publish the names of unruly students.

• Loss of privileges such as participation on athletic teams.

• Punishments that also involve learning, such as making students do math and word exercises.

Comments included the following:

Dolly Glasper noted that spanking, which is allowed under current guidelines, often has no effect on students.

One student feels stupid and frustrated because he can't keep up with his classmates, Wilbanks said.

"All of a sudden, they find themselves in the eighth grade and the only way to cope with the problem is to act up and bring others into their circle," he said.

Wilbanks said there was a lot of sentiment among teachers to end the custom of social promotion.

PTA President Sylvia Buford said maybe ministers and business leaders could be brought in to talk to unmotivated and unruly students.

Wilbanks said he thought that was a good idea, and Milton Morris, a Venice businessman, said he would be happy to talk to students.

Another man suggested that model students be assigned to help problem students.

Most of those present seemed to agree that discipline begins at home and parents should be urged to take action.

BAC trustees OK 2.5 cent tax hike

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Residents in the Belleville Area College district face an increase in their property tax rate as a result of a 2.5-cent increase approved by the BAC Board of Trustees on April 7.

The board voted 6 to 1 to utilize the tax levy to fund renovations at all three campuses — Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud, and the Programs and Services for Older Persons building in Belleville.

The renovation work will make the campuses more accessible for handicapped students, said BAC President Joe Cipfl. Residents will see the increase starting with their 1990 tax bills in April, Cipfl said.

Board member Ted Farmer said the money raised by raising the board should use the health-safety bonds to pay for the renovations, Cipfl said.

Those bonds are similar to life-health-safety bonds that are issued by public school districts lege's $4.3 million general fund to pay for the renovations.

"I'm certainly for helping the handicapped... but we're sitting here with a $4.3 million budget, and we should be using that to pay for this," Farmer said.

The modifications at the three campuses will cost about $502,000, according to estimates included in an accessibility study conducted by college architect Robert Ganschinetz, Dr. Cipfl said.

Among the changes to be made include: installation of automatic door openers at four entrances at the Belleville Campus, and one entrance each at Granite City and Red Bud; modification of restrooms at all three campuses; and installation of blinking lights next to fire alarm pull stations for the benefit of deaf students, Cipfl said.

The board will issue protective fund projects that will improve the health and safety of students.

Board Chairman Larry Reinerman said the money will be used to

Pratt trial postponed until fall

PONTOON BEACH — The trial of East Alton attorney Paul L. Pratt, 44, a drunken driving case, has been postponed until September.

Associate Judge Robert Hennessey granted Pratt's request for a continuance. The judge reset the case for the September docket.

The reason is that Madison County Assistant State's Atto-ney Robert Trone said he would be tied up on other matters until fall.

"I'm going to be pinned down," Trone said. "I said, 'Go ahead and continue it to fall.'"

Pratt did not return a reporter's phone calls.

Pratt, 44, of Bethalto, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol after his car collided with a pickup truck

Sept. 30 on Chain of Rocks Road in Pontoon Beach.

Pratt was also charged with resisting arrest and failing to reduce speed to avoid a collision. He is accused of scuffing with officer Dale Abel.

The case was originally set for trial Nov. 9 but was postponed twice. It was postponed once until January and then until April.

Parked vehicle looted

David A. Jenkins of Granite City reported that somebody took an empty stereo system from his car April 8. The stereo was parked in the 1500 block of Sixth Street.

The stereo was normally used for receipts from bingo games conducted by the Granite City Fire Department.

Handgun stolen from car
Stevens R. Frederick of the 1500 block of Seventh Street reported somebody entered his car during the night of April 6-7 and took a handgun and a box of shells. The gun was described as a .380 caliber AMT Backup. There were no signs of forced entry to the vehicle.

Apartment burglarized
Somebody broke a window and entered an unoccupied apartment in the 1400 block of Sixth Street during the night of April 6-9. The trailer is owned by Bentex Services Inc. of Nashville, Tenn. A second trailer owned by Bentex was looted of five cases of sugar during the same time period.

Burglaries at 3 locations

Virginia M. Thomas of the 3700 block of Westchester Drive reported that somebody entered her home April 7 through an unselected window and took a $300 television set.

An intruder pried open a back door of the Granite City Public Library, 2001 Delmar Ave., during the night of April 7-8. Nothing appeared to have been taken, officials said.

A burglar broke a cafeteria window at Specialized Services Inc., 110 Industrial Drive, during the night of April 8-9. Taken were a video cassette recorder and a television, each valued at $300.

Home squatters reported
Earl Warnhoff told police that one or more persons have been repeatedly breaking into his home in the 900 block of E. 24th Street during the last two months. The house is unoccupied, and the persons appeared to have been living there. Warnhoff said.

Spring and motorcycle season here

With the arrival of spring, car and truck drivers should be aware that the motorcycle riding season has begun, a spokesman of the Illinois Secretary of State's Office said.

He gave the following safety rules for sharing the road with a motorcycle:

The motorcycle rider has the same right-of-way privileges as other drivers of larger vehicles. Extend the same courtesies that you give to other drivers.

Never crowd a motorcycle. Allow more following distance than you do for a car because a motorcycle can stop much faster than a larger vehicle.

Any motorcycle, regardless of size, is entitled to use the full width of a traffic lane. Do not stop next to a motorcycle in the lane it is using. Either change lanes or stay behind. When passing a motorcycle, change lanes and pass the way you would pass a car.

Motorcycle signals do not turn off automatically on most motorcycles. Before turning in front of a motorcycle that has its turn signal on, be sure the rider is actually turning. The rider may have failed to turn off the signal after a previous turn.

If you are following a motorcycle, allow more distance when approaching a railroad track or a bridge. If a crossing is rough or the tracks cross the road at an angle, the rider will need room to maneuver and may have to slow down. The rider also may slow down if metal or grated bridges create a wobbling sensation in the cycle's front tire.

Burglar takes detector

A burglar broke the passenger window in an auto owned by Cote Brillante and removed a radar detector valued at $129.

The theft occurred while the locked car was parked at Hardee's Restaurant, 3949 West Chain of Rocks Road, on April 6. A rock thrown at the burglar cracked the side window and broke in two places.

Served with warrant

Paul Darren Green, 10, of the 2500 block of Madison Avenue, reported seeing two men open a vent window on his car during the night of April 4-5 and took a Kenwood stereo Model $300.

Two men loot vehicle

Charles A. Shelton, an employee of Burns Liquor Store, reported seeing two men flee from his car at 3:15 a.m. March 31. A door had been pried open. Taken were a tool box and assorted car repair tools of an unknown value.

Pistol fired by boy, 9

A nine-year-old boy found a pistol laying in the 1700 block of Rockford Street on the afternoon of April 6. Thinking it was a BB gun, he fired it into the air. When he realized it was a real gun, he took it to his mother, who turned it in to police.

Alleged drugs found

Police were summoned April 4 to a vacant apartment in Garcese Homes, where they found a balance scale with traces of a white powder on it and on a table. They also found what appeared to be five marijuana cigarette butts.

Arrested in assault case

Gregory Louis Blackman, 31, of the 200 block of Madison Avenue, Madison, was arrested at 3 p.m. April 6 on a Granite City warrant alleging failure to appear on a charge of assault. Blackman was taken to the Granite City court and his bond was continued at $3,500. He was ordered transferred to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Two tricycles stolen

Two tricycles, one pink and white and the other red and white, were stolen from the yard at the home of Sherry L. Lester in the 1600 block of Spruce Street, she reported April 6.

Linda M. Pospisich in the 1700 block of Edison Avenue, where she reportedly had been kicking on the doors, yelling profanity and trying to force his way inside the dwelling.

Pedestrian, 77, injured

Jesse A. Owens, 77, of the 1600 block of Venice Avenue was injured at 1:25 p.m. April 6 when struck by a car while walking in the Nameoki Village Shopping Center parking lot.

Owens, taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, had walked off the sidewalk heading east from the SuperX Drugs building and into the path of an auto operated by Rebecca M. Hunt, 19, of the 4100 block of Kaseberg Lane, Pontoon Beach.

Owens said he waited for several cars to pass by and was walking toward his car in the lot when the accident occurred.

Injured on Nameoki Road

Claud A. Hancock, 71, of the 1800 block of Venice Avenue suffered an injury April 6 when he drove onto Nameoki Road, from Crossroads Plaza Shopping Center at 10th and Alton. His car was struck by an auto heading south on Nameoki, operated by Stephen T. Powers, 40, of the 4000 block of Sara Avenue.

Gold revolver missing

A .22 caliber, gold-colored chrome revolver with a white pearl handle was stolen from the home of Wilbur E. Myatt in the 2200 block of Lee Avenue, he reported April 7.

Drug seminar set Saturday

VENICE — "Project Cleanup," a drug and alcohol abuse seminar, will take place at noon Saturday, April 14, in the Fellowship Hall at New Salem Missionary Baptist Church, 1349 Klein St.

"Free help will be available if you or someone you know needs help to fight drugs or alcohol abuse," said the Rev. John Henry Williams, pastor.

Help will be given on a strictly confidential basis, regardless of whether an individual is suffering from abuse of cocaine, alcohol, crack, ice, PCP or heroin, said the Rev. O.V. Carter, pastor of New Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church in Centreville.

"All of it leads to a dead-end street," Carter said. The minister is founder and coordinator of the Project Cleanup anti-drug-abuse program.

Post office to close

GRANITE CITY — The main Post Office, 2350 Madison Ave., will be closed due to remodeling between 5 p.m. Friday, April 20, and 6 a.m. Monday, April 23, said Postmaster Charles Parkinson. But Parkinson said the Nameoki Postal Station, 3236 Nameoki Road, will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 21.

Easter egg hunt planned

VENICE — The Venice Lions Club will hold an Easter egg hunt at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Venice Recreation Center on Broadway. Children between the ages of 1 and 10 years old may participate. The hunt will be conducted in three age groups.

Self-defense workshop

EDWARDSVILLE — As part of Sexual Assault Awareness Month, SIUE's Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center will sponsor a self-defense workshop at 7 p.m. April 17 and 12:30 p.m. April 18 on campus.

There will be no charge for the workshop.

For more information, the university's Rape and Sexual Abuse Care Center can be called at 692-2197.

Fresh Start workshops set

GRANITE CITY — Area residents have an opportunity to make a fresh start this year by kicking the smoking habit.

A possible date for such a fresh start is April 23.

In Fresh Start stop-smoking classes, participants discover why people smoke, how the habit is reinforced, how to manage the first few days without cigarettes, how to master obstacles, and the physical changes to expect after quitting.

Developed by the American Cancer Society, a four-week Fresh Start program will be offered on four consecutive Monday evenings, April 23 through May 14, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

A two-week Fresh Start class will be offered beginning Monday, June 4, and will meet on Mondays and Thursdays, June 4, June 7, June 11 and June 14, from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Classes will be held in the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St. Interested persons are encouraged to register as early as possible. Cost is $20 per person.

To register for information, persons may call the Wellness Center at 796-3WEL.

Safe food hauling cooperative effort

By Sen. Sam Vadalabene

56th Legislative District

SPRINGFIELD — The motto of the state of Illinois is "State Sovereignty, National Union." The motto reflects the two levels of government that most affect our lives.

Often times, the two levels of government compete against each other, not so much as rivals but as two entities pursuing different interests.

However, there are also times when the two units of government both work to solve a problem. When they do this, acting in unison or separately, the citizen is doubly served.

A good example of both levels of government responding to a problem involves the recent controversy surrounding the food shipper industry.

Truckers and newspapers have reported that trucks which are used to ship food have been hauling garbage and waste products on their return trip. This practice is known as backhauling.

Until the news reports highlighted this unsanitary practice, backhauling was neither well-known nor regulated. Now, however, both levels of government, working independently of each other, have stepped in to stop this practice.

The U.S. House of Representatives has just voted to ban trucks which ship food from hauling garbage and waste on the return trip. The bill, which passed 387-10, is H.R. 15. It still has a long way to go before becoming law. President Bush, for example, is on record as opposing this bill.

However, a similar bill designed to protect the consumer has already been proposed at the state level by a cooperative of truckers.

The legislation would require the Illinois Department of Public Health to establish procedures for decontaminating trucks that have been used to transport toxic substances, so as to make them safe for transporting food.

If a truck could not be adequately decontaminated, the department would have the power to prohibit the vehicle from transporting food in Illinois.

In addition, the legislation would require that maintenance logs be kept for each truck that transports food into, out of, or within the state.

According to the proposal, such logs must include a record of each load transported by the truck, the method of decontaminating a truck and where the decontamination took place.

Any person who knowingly violates the legislation could be fined between $1,000 and $2,500 for each violation.

To prevent backhauling, it is hoped that both bills are passed.

If the federal bill fails to become law, the state bill will protect the Illinois consumer.

Rehab counselor gets award

GRANITE CITY — Jack Strader was honored at the Illinois Department of Rehabilitation Services statewide meeting on April 4.

Strader was presented with the Counselor of the Year Award by Director Phillip Bradley.

Strader, a lifelong resident of Alton, has worked for the department for 20 years, 11 in the Alton office and nine years in Granite City, where he currently works.

Strader has a bachelor degree in psychology and a master degree in counselor education from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. He currently chairs the Human Rights Authority of Region 4-A.

Former chairman of the Illinois Dept. of Injury Advisory Board, he is a member of the National and Illinois Rehabilitation Association and the Social Service Network. He also is a team trainer for the Next Steps program of the St. Louis Metro Area Committee on Accessible Public Transportation.

Strader is a vocational expert in worker compensation and in 1989 was named in the National Distinguished Service Registry for Rehabilitation.

Strader was nominated by James Wilson, a DORS commissioner. The commission is the group which votes on the award.

In his acceptance speech, Strader gave credit to his case coordinators and their team approach.

"After 20 years, the job is still exciting and fulfilling. There is a sense of pride and this agency does make a difference."

SIUE plans Earth Day

EDWARDSVILLE — As part of the Earth Day 1990 celebration, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is offering an environmental fair Monday, April 23.

Informational booths will be displayed at the north entrance of SIUE's University Center from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Sierra poet Greg Kuebler will perform; the band "Acousticity" will present its special brand of music; and Walter Crawford, of the Washington University Tyson Research Center, will speak about "Birds of Prey."

'Singing the blues away' aids therapy patients

Maybe you don't believe a song can change your tune, but according to Lisa Jackert, registered music therapist at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Granite City, there is therapeutic validity to her song title, "singing the blues away."

"Music has an affect on our feelings and how we deal with them. Most people can relate to music, and sometimes it is easier to express our emotions with songs than by talking," Jackert said.

According to information from the National Association for Music Therapy, music therapists use music to help people reach therapeutic or curative aims — for example, to bring about desirable changes in behavior. Music therapy can be used to accomplish goals established by the treatment team for the individual, she said.

Jackert, who received her bachelor of science degree in music therapy from California State University at Long Beach, works with patients at SEMC's Ketteler Mental Health Center. Also, she conducts stress-management classes for the public and hospital associates.

Jackert said music can be used for many reasons, mostly she uses it to help calm patients and to help them express their feelings by requesting or making up songs.

"Depending on the needs, music can achieve many goals, such as expressing feelings, building self-esteem, increasing attention span, and learning to communicate and socialize," Jackert said.

"In some cases, music can be the reason a withdrawn person establishes eye contact with someone for the first time in a long while."

In her music therapy sessions, Jackert may ask patients, "How do you feel?" To help them think about their own feelings, she may ask them to choose a song that directly relates to how they are feeling.

"Since music affects behavior, it is a way for us to get people to open up, and sometimes that is very difficult for patients with whom they are depressed," she said.

"You can't come on too strong at first, or think you can make people feel better simply by playing a guitar and singing. You have to start with a downhearted song like the Eagles' 'Desperado' and then slowly you try to bring up their spirits."

According to the NAMT, music always has been a way for people to explore their emotions. Using music to communicate has been a part of human history since the time of the cavemen.

During World War I, music teachers and students attached songs to hospital patients who were not responding to other methods of treatment. Before long, many hospitals used musicians. However, by 1950, many institutions realized the therapeutic values of music and were employing music ther-

Since then, music therapy has gone through many changes and now is used in hospitals, mental health centers, day care facilities, school systems and special service agencies.

NAMT statistics show that more than 5,000 individuals have been helped by registered music therapists since 1958, and the number continues to increase.

"People like music.

The first time I had a sing-along, the patients loved it. It is not often people get the opportunity to

things.

"When I am leading a session,

I always try to play the music on guitar or piano because it is more personal and it is a good way for people to get to know me. Sometimes in the stress management class, I may use cassettes like the Billy Joel song, 'I Wanna Know What's Going On' to demonstrate different behaviors and attitudes," Jackert said.

However, she said, there are many times in therapy when a person will hide behind the sheet music.

"Then, all of sudden, that same person will raise one hand and ask for a particular song," she said.

"When you play music for someone, you are acknowledging them and validating their feelings."

Many times you'll find that persons will request a song that expresses the way they are feeling — that is a way to begin talking with them about their problems," Jackert said.

"We all have certain memories attached to songs, and those feelings may get repressed for a while and need to be opened. This is especially true for older people."

"People need to reminisce. It is a good way to get them to focus on themselves — most people find music soothing and it lifts their spirits," Jackert said.

She prefers using the guitar and piano in her sessions. She chooses different types of music depending on the age, background and personal preference of patients.

"When I am leading a session, I always try to play the music on guitar or piano because it is more personal and it is a good way for people to get to know me. Sometimes in the stress management class, I may use cassettes like the Billy Joel song, 'I Wanna Know What's Going On' to demonstrate different behaviors and attitudes," Jackert said.

In the stress classes she also plays slow, soft melodies on the piano while the patient relaxes and concentrates on breathing and the music.

"You can slow down your heart rate and decrease your blood pressure."

"There have been many studies that prove music can have positive physiological effects," Jackert said.

She always has been interested in music, she said, and yet she wanted to help people.

"I think people know music can change their behavior and we are applying that in different areas," Jackert said.

"I remember one lady who came into the unit. She would bite and kick, and wouldn't talk. I started going into her room to see her and I would sing to her," Jackert said.

"One day I started singing a folk song and she pointed to the music book."

"A few days later, I went in and she pointed to a song she wanted me to sing."

"Before long she was singing with me and her whole attitude changed — she was able to sociize with the other patients and staff."

"When she left, I made her a book of her favorite songs to take with her. I hope the music would serve as a reminder to her of the progress she made."

Service to Scouting recognized

GRANITE CITY — The Silver Beaver is the highest adult award that can be bestowed by a council of the Boy Scouts of America and the Cahokia Mound Council based here traditionally chooses as recipients several Scouters with long records of dedication to the program.

Those selected for recognition in 1990 are J. Patrick "Pat" Busch of Granite City, Jim Watkins of Sorento and Darryl Belcher of Collinsville. All have been cited for distinguished service to young people in Madison and Bond counties area.

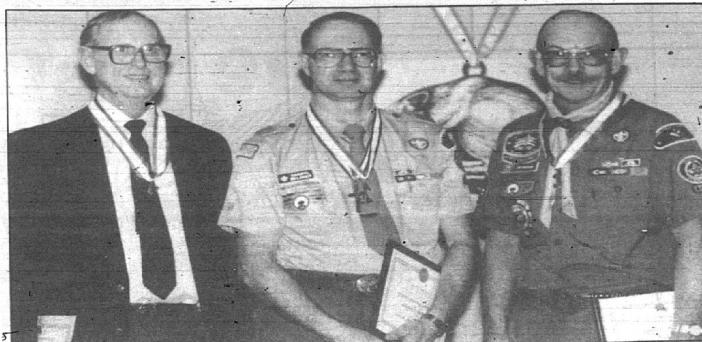

Busch has been closely associated with Boy Scout Troop 5, whose sponsoring institution is the Nameoki Methodist Church.

He has served as its scoutmaster and as chairman of the troop committee.

A unit commissioner on the Uniwhip (Quad City area) District commissioner staff of the Boy Scout Council, Busch has served in a variety of district committee posts.

He has received Wood Badge training and is a member of the Order of the Arrow, Scouting's honor camping organization.

Under his guidance, Troop 5 has won acclaim for excellence. It has produced more Eagle Scouts than any other troop in the council. His three sons are all Eagle Scouts.

Busch and his wife, Catherine, have been residents of Granite City for more than 30 years.

They have five children.

Before retiring from the Sunmark Companies in St. Louis, he held such positions as director of administration and vice president for corporate services.

A graduate of Marquette University, Busch previously served in several accounting positions at the A.O. Smith Corp.

City plan has much merit

The comprehensive plan that has been written for Granite City has considerable merit. The City Council would be justified in adopting it.

About a year ago the Press-Record/Journal included the prospect of a new city plan in "Granite City on Hold" — a series on issues facing the newly elected/re-elected city government. A Plan Commission member was quoted as saying, "Our biggest problem is no one cares (about development patterns) until you're talking about next door." The newly completed plan offers a remedy for this problem and spells out a number of desirable goals.

The plan has been in the works for more than 18 months. It has been the subject of many news articles and has been mentioned in every Plan Commission and City Council meeting for the past six months. Still, some residents, and even aldermen, seem to have been caught by surprise.

The plan — drawn up by Campbell Design, the Plan Commission and the aldermanic Planning and Zoning Committee — is a policy statement designed to guide and encourage future growth. The key elements are residential development to the northeast, industrial development in the southwest and west, and use of special commercial zoning for Madison Avenue.

Except for the B-1 Madison Avenue district, which is already a part of the zoning law, the plan calls for no immediate zoning changes. Home owners in potential industrial areas won't be forced out.

In Lincoln Place and Tri-City Park, where residents have expressed concern, if a developer bought options on an entire neighborhood and planned to put in a residential subdivision, the city would turn the proposal down. In Tank Town and its surrounding area, an industrial plant proposal would be turned down.

By allowing industry to locate in the northeast, the city would be subdividing itself and blocking future residential growth. That would be inappropriate and the city plan would help to avoid such an outcome.

The idea of the plan is to require developers to choose suitable locations, but the developers would still be on their own as far as acquiring the needed property. This approach seems reasonable, and a big plus for both residents and businesses.

6-lane 270 will be helpful

Motorists may grumble from time to time about the amount of the tax collected on gasoline, but the other side of the coin is that highway and bridge projects are being expedited as a result of recent tax increases.

Widening of Interstate 270 and the bridge from Illinois 111 westbound into Missouri is one of many exciting traffic-flow improvements just outlined by District Engineer Dale Klorh. The 270 bridge over the Mississippi River is designed to accommodate the two additional lanes. For the span crossing the Chain of Rocks Canal, an entirely new structure will be necessary.

Klorh is confident that a middle lane for left turns can have a remarkable impact on congestion, and he intends to apply that magic to part of Nameoki Road (a fifth lane, two-way for left turns) and part of Pontoon Road (a third lane).

A new four-lane structure to carry McCambridge Avenue over the railroad tracks south of Second Street in Madison also will be a fine improvement. Unfortunately, no overpass for the rail crossing on the East 23rd Street extension is in the five-year road plan at this time.

Worthy cause not enough

"A man's got to know his limitations," actor Clint Eastwood has said in several movies, and it applies to elected government officials. Most Illinois taxing districts are "creatures of the state" and their boards' powers are limited to those powers granted by the General Assembly.

The issue arose at a Granite City Board of Education meeting in March when a $100 contribution was voted for a fund to help an ailing child. It was clearly a worthy cause, but such an expenditure probably lacks a legal basis. Government funds would quickly be depleted if not applied to permissible costs, such as salaries or equipment.

Dal deserves another Series

By Bill Winter

If yesterday's game had ended on a happier note, I might have gone out on a limb today and predicted an undefeated year for those young baseball stars of the baseball diamond, the St. Louis Cardinals.

Seriously, no team can expect to finish with a 162-0 record, just as no professional golfer or tennis player can stay undefeated for a year.

But hope does spring eternally, even recklessly, every spring and I'm ready to announce my 1990 pennant prediction: the Cardinals will know all those All-Star marvels, Augie's awesome athletes, Dal's dazzling or Whitey's whizzes.

Lest you question my forecast of a championship, keep in mind that I also predicted there would be some mighty dark nights in April.

Almost as quickly as Ozzie Smith can do his infield backflip, the Cardinals chalked up two victories in the friendly confines of Busch Stadium after an unusually short pre-season training and the absence of their chief of relief, pitcher Todd Worrell.

Now 2-1, the Cardinals depart for out-of-town games this weekend with their traditional speed and defense, improved hitting and outstanding starting pitching.

General Manager Dal Maxvill, a Granite City product with eight World Series titles, is sometimes assailed for not making enough player trades; but, as the cliché goes, some of the best swaps are those that are never made.

Certainly, of the dealing Dal has done, not all his trades have proven to be good.

He is said to be limited to Cardinal-generated dollars despite the deep pockets of the team's owner, the giant brewer/strikeholder and investment company that went with St. Louis to the most successful of all major-league franchises, there is reason to believe he has enough leeway to obtain whatever help Manager Tony La Russa needs.

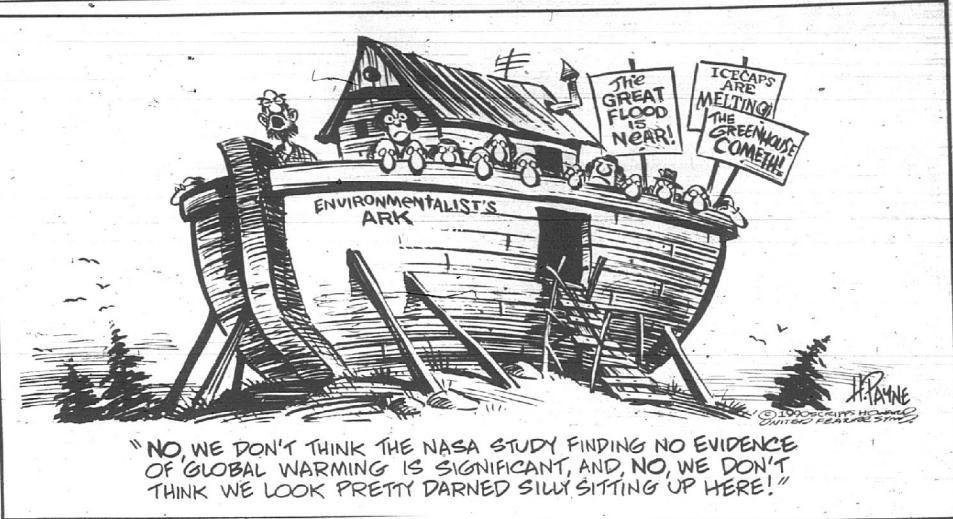

No matter what the outcome of the 1990 competition, there is no doubt that the annual renewal of baseball rivalry electrifies the faithful fans and unifies the 51-state region in a common cause: going to the ball park to eat hot dogs and cheer for our stalwart representatives on the baseballs.

Boys and girls competing may be bigger sports statistically. Auto racing has wide appeal. Football and basketball are contenders for top honors. And soccer and wrestling are wonderful sports from a Granite City viewpoint.

But there really is no other number-one sport than baseball, in this opinion. And I've hit against enough analytic people to know how tough it must be when a Bob Gibson or a Worrell is throwing at you at 95 miles per hour.

In summary: Baseball's back, God is in His Heaven and all's right with the world.

Whoever had the audacity to label April as the "cruellest month" obviously was no friend of Mickey, the Babe, Willie, DiMag, Yogi or Stan.

Letters

Aldermen will fight the arrogant EPA

To the editor:

The recent decision by the Environmental Protection Agency to go ahead with its planned cleanup of the Taracorp site points out several ideas that I would like to comment on.

As an independent federal regulator, the EPA can pass rules and regulations that have the same effect as statutory law, except these people are not elected and they are not directly accountable to the people they supposedly serve.

Of course, being an independent agency means they are supposed to make decisions free from political or special interest pressure.

The intent of this principle is sound, and therefore inherent if this "independent" agency is to fulfill its mandate.

However, the principle of independence should also mean that the exercise of this power should be fair, impartial and in the best interest of the public. To the people our citizens were supposed to provide meaningful input were, in effect, public relations scams with no real substance.

The recent decision of the EPA concerning the Taracorp site is an example of the blatant disregard that this federal agency has for the people of Granite City.

By excluding the citizens of Granite City in choosing viable alternatives, by ignoring the possibility that the cleanup might not prove tangible risk, the federal agency has shown its arrogance and total disregard for our community.

The Taracorp site decision is an example of a federal bureaucracy ruing amok with its own power. The exercise of public hearings held by the EPA where our citizens were supposed to provide meaningful input were, in effect, public relations scams with no real substance.

Instead, some faceless bureaucrats in Washington, D.C. made a decision that will have a direct economic and currently undetermined health impact on the citizens of our community for years to come.

As an elected official in our city, I urge that speak for my fellow council members when I say that the health of our citizens is our number one concern.

If blood test show that our citizens are at risk, then we must support a decision for some type of cleanup in those areas that are most contaminated. However, digging up contaminated soil and creating an enormous pile of waste is hardly the kind of monument we want to leave future generations.

In conclusion, I feel confident that the elected officials in our city will find a place for the citizens of our community to come together and help to clean up our neighborhood.

We're not going to give in without a fight.

Alderman, Second Ward

College takes time for reflection this month

To the editor:

This April, Belleville Area College is observing Community College Month, a time to reflect on the special nature of two-year institutions of higher learning.

BAC strives to be friendly and accessible. Our full-time students pay about $960 a year in tuition, compared to four-year institutions in the metropolitan area charging $5,000.

Our system of three campuses — in Belleville, Granite City and Bed-Bed — and 18 extension centers makes higher education accessible to all residents of our 2,100-square-mile, eight-county district.

Working with incoming students, our counselors can arrange a schedule of credit courses which are fully transferable to four-year programs.

With 80 university-transfer and occupational/vocational specialties to choose from, our students have an opportunity to fine-tune their career plans.

Our occupational/vocational offerings give students another option. After just two years of study, some accelerated certificate programs our graduates obtain skills that make them a valuable addition to any company's workforce.

As wage earners, many of our students afford to complete a four-year program.

We offer a range of programs to prepare students for the high-tech fields that will be expanding greatly in the '90s. Graduates of our problems — Aircraft

Maintenance, Computers, Electronics, Welding, to name just a few — will find places of jobs等着 our community creating them.

In fact, many students receive offers even before they complete their two-year degree programs or certification courses.

BAC is a citizen-supported institution. As Community College Month is a fitting time for me, on behalf of the board of trustees, students, faculty, staff and administration, to thank the hundreds of conscientious citizens who serve on our many advisory committees.

People think of a college as bricks and mortar, desks and chairs, but this institution takes its special character from special people like these. Donating countless volunteer hours, they provide expertise that makes us responsive, changing community needs. We hope to help us keep up with the pace of rapid change, offering students the latest information and technology.

About 20,000 residents of District 322 looked to BAC for their educational needs last year. Another 4,000 come to stop by one of our campuses and find out how we can serve you.

The public is invited to attend the special activities planned for this observance, such as a performance by Sunapee Brass, a Celtic band, brass ensemble, at the Scottish Rite on April 21, and the dedication of our new four-acre arboretum at the Belleville Campus on April 22.

What has foreign aid bought for America? It's almost a total disaster. Besides, instead of our toward bankruptcy, aid has led to America being despised by the peoples of most nations.

They know that our dollars have been used to buy a tyrant in power. Look at the USSR, Deng in China, Ceausescu in Romania, Jaruzelski in Poland, or destroy a good leader (the Shah) in Iran, Somosa in Nicaragua, or force wretched of ill-governed programs (agrarian reform) in South Vietnam and now in El Salvador.

This single foreign aid appropriation is only one part of all the money we give away. I would like to point out that none of these transfers of money are authorized by the Constitution and should all be stopped.

We find the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund and lots of other international funds. We even pay for the defense of Germany, Japan and South Korea, which is a form of foreign aid. These nations and should take care of them.

Earth Day 1990

Fifth graders look to planet's future

A popular environmental slogan states, "We don't inherit the Earth from our parents, we borrow it from our children."

These letters were written for Earth Day by Marilyn Rongey's fifth grade class at Frohardt Elementary School in Granite City.

The students express their concerns about the future of planet Earth and offer some suggestions for keeping it intact for their children.

To the editor:

Hello! My name is Steven Houk. I am concerned about our environment. Earth Day is a day we can do something, but we shouldn't only do something about our environment on Earth Day, we should like a stand now. It has been taken care of for a long time. Our school is having a trash the trash day. We pick up trash in the neighborhood. What do you think we could do about other things? Please write with answers. I will, along with my classmates, will try to help the environment.

I believe that if we would recycle one ton of newspapers, we would save seventeen trees. I wish everyone would help.

STEVEN HOUK

To the editor:

Hello my name is Tara Tomlinson. I am in the fifth grade and I go to Frohardt School and I am concerned about Earth Day. I think we should all get together and pick up trash instead of littering. Day the fifth grade of Frohardt School will clean up around our school. The rain forest of the world could clean a lot of air. If we recycle paper and aluminum cans. If we all clean up a little of the earth the water, the land, and everything would be cleaner.

BILLY RAGAN

To the editor:

We have a major problem. It is pollution. We are the leading community in air pollution in Illinois. But there is another kind of pollution that is causing a big problem. It is trash.

We need to clean up this trash. It is trash that we all know that every person should go out and clean up their neighborhood. Kids could even go out on their bikes with a trash bag and pick up trash, until their neighborhood is clean. We need to stop adding to the trash and clean our city.

To the editor:

I think that Earth Day is a good idea to help this Earth be a better place to live, work, learn and play. I have a couple ideas of my own to make the Earth a great place to live. (1) Don't use plastic or gasoline instead of compost organic materials. (2) Don't leave lights, TV or radio running when not using. (3) Don't litter. (4) Collect all trash on school grounds, parks and at home. (5) Encourage your school to include classroom water conservation. I hope other people feel the same way. I feel a part of our Earth.

JULIE HILDEBRAND

To the editor:

Hello! My name is Julie Burnett. I'm in fifth grade and 11 years old.

Friday, April 20, we are having a Stash the Trash Day. All of the fifth grade classes will clean up our playground so we can have a better place to play at recess.

Some of the things we can do in our home is to not leave the water running, lower our thermostat, turn off lights on when not in the room, buy food products in cardboard and join a car pool or share a ride.

It may not be easy to live without some of these things, but it's important that we learn to we have a safe earth for our future and generation to come.

CHRISTY GILMORE

Hello! My name is Julie Burnett. I'm in fifth grade and 11 years old.

around the school cleaning up the trash. I wish this world was a better place to live. We would all this pollution if we would be great! If only we could prevent it. It is such a sad way to run the world.

Almost every month I get a lot of my friends together and we clean up around the block and on our streets. This makes our community the better for it.

Hundreds of them are being killed by this so called "Polluted Junk."

It is just a waste to throw garbage anywhere except in your own trash can. I wish I could help a lot more but I can't. I'll try harder to get people not to throw trash in the lakes, street, grass, or anywhere people litter at.

INGRID TINGLEY

To the editor:

Hello. My name is Melissa Bernaix. I am in fifth grade at Frohardt School. I wish this world could be better. I think it is important to teach people their trash and cigar butts on the ground when ever they feel like it.

Instead they should put it in a trash can. People should check their cars once a month. And cars are what really pollute the air. The sun is the only car we can really hurt. If they stand in the back of the car. April 20 all of the fifth grade classes in my school are going to bring trash bags to school and clean up our school yard. People should take care of our earth. They should not trash and litter. They should not ask other people to help take care of the earth too. So it does not turn into a trash dump and a very smelly place.

MELISSA E. BERNIAIX

To the editor:

My name is Jessica Foster. I am eleven years old.

As you know Earth Day is April 22. But our earth we live on isn't so great, but we could make it a great place to live, work, and for young people to play. We could put our trash in the right place. Things that can pollute streams, and make all stop cutting down our trees. Our trees collect the carbon dioxide we exhale; they are the reason we live.

Most people don't care whether we live not; they just keep cutting down our trees, polluting our air and streams, lakes, ponds, and even rivers. Our air isn't really safe to breathe our lakes, streams, ponds aren't safe to swim in. I hope this Earth Day people take pride in our unending earth and help take care of it.

JESSICA FOSTER

To the editor:

The world could be a much better place if... there wasn't so much pollution in our waters and air, and litter on the ground.

People can be so careless! It scares me to think we're going up the ladder to become worse. I think if everyone would help maybe our earth will be a pretty place again. I am most concerned that this pollution and littering stops! Hopefully someday our world will be a clean, beautiful place to live.

Bill Badgley's $2-billion bank group traces history to pre-Civil War era

Bill Winter

Rounding out the board are Chairman Badgley, Vice Chairman Andes and Donald G. Geary, founder and retired chairman of Regal 8 Inns.

THE HOLDING COMPANY that became Magna in 1988 dates back only to 1974.

But the former First National Bank of Belleville was started a century before that, in 1874, and the Decatur bank was established in 1864, a year before the Civil War began.

Presidents on the board are Wayne T. Ewing of Peabody Development Co., Theodore F. Gundlach of T.F. Gundlach Co., Paul G. Miller of Magna Millikin Bank of Decatur and David A. Vogt of Magna Bank of Madison County.

The group's latest annual report, emphasizing "growth and consumer confidence," has just been issued. The annual meeting is set for 10 a.m. Tuesday, May 24, at 18 Public Square, Belleville.

THE TOP TWO Magna officials are Bill Badgley, chairman and president, and G. Thomas Andes, vice chairman of Magna Group. The report shows Melvin C. Wilmsey as the Granite City Magna bank's chairman and chief executive officer.

Local facilities are at 20th Street and Edison Avenue (formerly First Granite City National Bank), which is part of the Granite City Steel office building; the former Colonial Bank at Pontoon and Marquette roads; and the bank in the Bellemore Village Shopping Center.

On the 13th of Magna Group's board of directors, the best known here is Dr. George T. Wilkins Jr., president of Wood River and become Magna Bank of Madison County.

Research programs and community advisory committees have helped Magna continually update its operations in line with the goal of quality service.

MAGNA'S SECURITY CLUB offers extra benefits for customers age 60 or over. Membership has soared in three years from 12,400 to 24,900.

The Magna Club Account is a package of bank services including a checking account, provided for a minimum balance of $1,000. Membership has risen since December 1989, from 3,000 to 10,600.

New and extended goals for the 1990s are more staff training, improved communication with customers, expanded investment services, new programs for younger customers, and emphasis on life-cycle banking.

Badgley's assets reached $1.08 billion at year-end.

Magna's Data Services continued to consolidate the group's data processing.

Medicare covers EKG exams

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

My doctor wants me to have an electrocardiogram (EKG), since I have been having chest pains. I am still working, so I don't get Social Security, but I do have Medicare. Will Medicare pay for the EKG?

A. Tests that you get in the doctor's office or as an office outpatient to help diagnose your illness are covered. Part B of Medicare usually covers 80 percent of approved costs after you meet your annual $75 deductible.

However, if you are covered by your employer's group health plan you should submit your claim to that insurance company first. Medicare is the secondary payer on claims from people who are still working and covered by an employer's group health plan.

If the employer doesn't pay your whole bill, submit a claim to Medicare for possible additional reimbursement.

For more details, call 800-234-5772 and ask for the pamphlet "Medicare and Employer Health Plans."

Q. I have decided to retire and start my Social Security at age 62 next month. Can I get my Medicare now or do I have to wait until age 65?

A. Generally, you have to be age 65 to get Medicare.

But there are a couple of exceptions. People who have a chronic kidney disease that requires dialysis or a transplant and people who draw Social Security disability benefits for two years can have Medicare at 62.

So, most people retiring before age 65 must make other provisions for medical expenses they incur after retirement but before Medicare coverage begins.

Some employers offer continued health benefits after retirement and some require purchase of their own coverage from insurance companies. Other retirees just pay for their health care themselves until Medicare starts.

Q. I have been receiving Social Security disability benefits for three years. My condition never will improve, but my goal is to return to work and support my family on my wages.

When I return to work I may be able to work only part-time at first, and that may not be enough to pay my living expenses. How can I make sure that if I return to work my family's needs will be met?

A. You can test your ability to return to work for nine months without losing any Social Security benefits. Anyone drawing disability benefits is entitled to a nine-month trial work-period unless they have recovered from their impairment.

It doesn't matter how much you earn during those nine months. You'll get all of your Social Security benefits anyway.

And even after nine months of work you still can get your benefits as long as you don't earn more than $500 per month.

But if you earn more than $500 per month after the nine-month trial work period, you will lose your benefits. The checks will continue for a three-month grace period and then your monthly disability benefit will stop.

There are two valuable rights, though, that you retain even after cash benefits stop coming. First, if you keep Medicare for an additional 36 months. Second, if you are in that month in 36-month period you stop working, you can get your monthly Social Security benefits back without a new application. All you have to do is let Social Security know you have stopped.

A. Since you are over 60 you can remarry without losing any of your Social Security benefits.

It used to be that a widow would lose benefits if she remarried. But in 1979 the law was changed.

Now, as long as widows and widowers are at least age 60 they can keep their benefits even if they marry. ***

One option: scaling down plans for county building

By John D. Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County officials met Monday morning to consider options that Fred Dalton, D-Collinsville, said would likely include scaling back plans for a new administration building and courthouse renovation.

The county has to decide how to overcome an estimated $4 million shortfall in funds for construction of the building and for renovation.

Later Monday, members of three county committees, with State's Attorney William Haines and county Director of Administration, Guy M. Dalton, a representative of the architectural firm of Leo A. Daly, hired by the county to prepare plans for the project, will meet.

Members of the Buildings, Central Services and Finance committees will eye options and attempt to have a recommendation for the full board when it meets April 18. Building Committee Chairman Herbene "Junior" Milton of Granite City said Monday.

Haine said the purpose of the Monday afternoon meeting was two-fold: to confer with the building committee that may be made on the plans and to discuss whether another bidder could be considered for the administration building.

The funding shortfall became apparent last Thursday when sealed bids for the projects were opened during a joint meeting of the Central Services and Buildings committees.

The low bid of $18,120,000 for the work was submitted by Korte Construction Company of Highland.

The county is close to completing the sale of $14 million in general obligation bonds approved by the board to finance much of the project.

But when the costs of the architects, property acquisition, building and engineering of county offices until the administration building is completed are factored in, the cost rises.

Based on the Korte bid, costs will total at least $20.1 million, county Auditor Fred Bathon said.

The county is only expected to have $17.7 million in bonds and sales tax revenue available for the project by the end of this month, Bathon said.

Monday said that the financial picture is somewhat brighter by the fact that the county can draw interest from the bonds it is selling, at least until a payment schedule for the county's portion of the costs is set.

Also Monday morning, several board members indicated support for radically cutting back on plans for improvements to the courthouse and instead using money available to complete the administration building with as few changes as possible.

"I really believe all of the attention here should be focused on the administration building," Dalton said.

Central Services Committee Chairman Van Ettmoff of Granite City also said he would be reluctant to see cuts to the administration building, such as one suggested by Jack Frandsen of Alhambra.

Frandsen said there are numerous areas where cuts can be made in the new building, including the elimination of jail and security dock for jail prisoners.

But Ettmoff said, "One of the most serious problems we have here is prisoners. It's a wonder we haven't had a break yet."

Ettmoff said that repairs and renovations to the courthouse can wait but that it would be a serious mistake to make substantial cuts to the new building.

Frandsen said that the county should not be reaching for government aid but Cipri said the board voted to use protection-health-safety bonds, rather than the college's general fund, on advice from the college auditors.

"Our auditors have indicated that we are one of the few institutions that have a positive cash flow," Cipri said. "They have advised us to keep our fund balance at 10 percent of our operating budget, which is currently about $20 million."

said the district also will use about $710,000 from the general fund to pay for renovations at the Belleville campus.

Projects will include relocation of the financial aid office from the third floor to the first floor and expansion of the cafeteria, bookstore and personnel office.

The board will let bids for the Belleville campus renovations in early summer and for the accessibility renovations in early fall, Cipri said.

Tax bills due earlier

EDWARDSVILLE — Madison County property owners can expect their tax bills to arrive at least three weeks earlier than last year, county officials say.

After talking to a representative of the county's tax assessing department, County Treasurer Michael "Mick" Henkhaus said, "We're shooting for a target date of June 8 or earlier to have tax bills in the mail."

Last year, tax bills went out on June 1. County Clerk Evelyn Bowles said:

The property tax cycle's final step — certification of the county's multiplier by the Illinois Department of Revenue — was finished six weeks ahead of last year. The county was notified this month that it received a final multiplier of 1.0 — no multiplier.

Now that the multiplier is certified, Bowles said, her office can begin determining tax rates.

The multiplier is used by state officials to ensure that property tax assessment levels are set fairly from one county to the next.

A multiplier higher than 1.0 for a particular township indicates that actual sales values for properties are higher than the previous year's estimated value.

The combination of 24 township multipliers was sufficient to achieve the 1.0 county-level multiplier.

Bowles said she couldn't account for the speed at the state level in getting the multiplier.

"All I know is that they promised to get them out early this year and they kept their promise," Bowles said.

Henkhaus said he expects to make a "distribution" of funds to county taxing bodies within a week after the bills are sent.

Terrific trio

Lady Warriors, Alton, Collinsville set to tangle

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

Although none of the coaches would ever come right out and say it, it's likely that southern Illinois' representative in the IHSAA Girls' Soccer Tournament will come out the metro east triangle of Granite City, Collinsville and Alton.

That said, the next five days will give a good early-season indication of how these three teams compare to one another. The Lady Warriors (2-1) go to Alton tonight to face the Redwings (6-2), then travel to Collinsville to take on the Lady Kabobs (3-0) on Saturday. Collinsville and Alton will square off Monday.

Junior varsity action at Gordon Moore Park tonight begins at 7 p.m. Because there is no night Alton coach Dick Brown said the JV game will be two 30-minute halves, so the varsity match should start by 5:15 or 5:30. JV action Saturday is at 11 a.m. with the varsity game to follow at 1 p.m. at Collinsville's new field near the high school.

It came down to a one-on-one battle between the Lady Warriors and the Lady Kabobs the last two years. Alton is quickly approaching that level. "They were pretty close last

Tuesday schedule washed out

Tuesday's area high school sports schedule was washed out due to the rain.

The featured attraction was to be a baseball double-header between the Warriors (5-1) and Belleville East (7-0). Both teams are 1-0 in the Southwestern Conference.

The game will be made up in Granite City at 4:30 p.m. April 24. The softball game between the Lady Warriors and Belleville East, the defending state champions, will be at 4:30 in Belleville.

Junior varsity action at Gordon Moore Park tonight begins at 7 p.m. Because there is no night Alton coach Dick Brown said the JV game will be two 30-minute halves, so the varsity match should start by 5:15 or 5:30. JV action Saturday is at 11 a.m. with the varsity game to follow at 1 p.m. at Collinsville's new field near the high school.

It came down to a one-on-one battle between the Lady Warriors and the Lady Kabobs the last two years. Alton is quickly approaching that level. "They were pretty close last year," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "Alton is very imposing athletically, mostly because of the twins. And they have a number of other impressive players."

The twins are sophomores Camie and Carrie Bechard. Camie already has 14 goals this season while Carrie has eight goals and eight assists. The Redwings have a formidable supporting cast with Marcy Jacob on the backfield, Kim Klope in goal. Klope has three shutouts. "We're improved this year, but we're still young," said Alton coach Mick Brown. "Consistency is the big part of our game we're still working on. We've played well against good competition and not so well against lesser teams."

Alton lost 1-0 to McCluer North in its season opener and lost 2-1 to Springfield's Sacred Heart-Griffin last week.

"The Springfield game was one of those where we didn't play well in a game we should have won," said Brown. "They scored with 26 seconds left to beat us."

Brown feels the Redwings proved themselves better against Collinsville last year, gaining a split while losing once and getting a crossover tie against the Lady Warriors.

"We're anxious to prove ourselves against those teams," Brown said. "But we've been here and we've got a game to play. Granite City will be a good game. We'll have to play a good defensive game against them. Addie Lenzi and Amanda Witter are very dangerous players. I want to play a lot in the off-season."

The Lady Kahoks, state finalists the last two years, are off to another good start. But they will be without two key players, seniors Debbie Henrich and Kelly Brown, who are in Italy on a trip with the Collinsville High School Latin Club. Andria Cline will be missing from the Lady Warrior lineup because of vacation.

"I know Granite will come out fired up," said Brown. "I don't want to make that an issue of a deal about it," said new Collinsville coach Andy Kostberg. "There's a real good chance we'll be playing them three times this season. I don't want the girls to think we're

JVB, Joe lead Class of 1990

We must be doing something right in Granite City.

It's not often one high school can have two athletes recruited by such top-quality college programs as Indiana University and Indiana University of Pennsylvania. One high school which has a soccer player going to Indiana University and a baseball player heading for Oklahoma State has a right to be proud of its athletic program.

John Van Buskirk and Joe Wallace are the standard bearers athletically for the Granite City High School Class of 1990. In sports, this year's senior class came up with better ones, though perhaps not quite at the level of the vaunted Class of 1987, which was led by Tim and Jamie Hogan and Todd Adamitis.

In addition to Van Buskirk and Wallace this year, there's Jennifer Cavaness (basketball), Keri Weckman (tennis), Matt Schenck (hockey) and Michael Bequette (soccer). All three should be rated as among the best in their respective sports.

None of the athletes from the Class of '87 landed with a college program except for Indiana University's Oklahoma State baseball. The Hoosier-kickers, under coach Jerry Yeagley, were the team of the '80s in college soccer, with three national championships. Tim Van Buskirk has won 200 games in 17 seasons, tops among active college soccer-coaches.

The Hoosiers are losing exactly one senior from a team which reached the NCAA final, while Yeagley wanted Van Buskirk. And well he should. In my short time here, John was easily the best soccer player I've seen.

He and Scott Stone have been the two stars in recent years. Stone might have been more thrilling to watch with his blazing speed and nose for the net. But Van Buskirk has done it all, and he's still the best.

He and Scott Stone have been the two stars in recent years. Stone might have been more thrilling to watch with his blazing speed and nose for the net. But Van Buskirk has done it all, and he's still the best.

He was a good enough player his first three years to be selected for the All-Stars (his cousin) and Stone. But when his other cousin, Troy Adamitis, moved to San Diego last year, the stage was Van Buskirk's alone. And he didn't miss a cue. He had a 100% winning record (19 goals and 10 assists). And his performance in the state tournament, when he was well below 100 percent physically due to a bad right leg, was nothing short of heroic. All-American honors were well deserved.

Oklahoma State has been to the College World Series the last seven years and is again ranked among the top 20 teams in the nation this season. And the Cowboys recruited Wallace sight

1,400 points in her high school career and led the Lady Warriors to back-to-back regional championships. "They had a real good team last year, but I think we can play right away."

The new Granite City Cavaness will have at SEMO is the same one she enjoyed in high school — her size. At 6-2, she is the only big player recruited this year by SEMO coach Ed Arzen. "We've got four commitments for four different positions," said Arzen. "But Jennifer is the only inside player we're bringing in. We graduated a 6-0 girl and a 6-1 girl from last year, so we finished 24-24. So we will definitely take a good look at her next year."

Cavaness figures the main thing she'll have to work on is her outside shot, something she never had to worry about in high school.

"I'll have to start working on the three-pointer," she said. "That's something I've never done before."

"We saw her three times last year and the thing that impressed me the most was how tall Jennifer ran the floor," said Arzen. "She's a good athlete. But it's a more physical game in college. She'll have to get stronger, but a lot that comes with age. She's been stronger than she is at 12. And we have our own strength coach who gets everyone going on a weight program."

Arzen said SEMO likes to run a double low post offense, which Cavaness figures to be a big part of and lots of man-to-man defense.

"Most kids don't know what is expected on the defensive, what they get to college," he said. "But Jennifer is a hard worker and seems to be very coachable."

"She'll be playing against other girls her own size much more often, and the things that will impress her the most will be the better strength and quickness of all the others."

SEMO has applied to join the Ohio Valley Conference when it becomes a Division I school. Arzen said he hasn't heard back from the conference if SEMO will be accepted. Tennessee Tech has the best women's basketball program in the OVC, a consistent top 20 program.

But it can't be any tougher for SEMO, which is why trying to make it out of regional competition in Division II. Arzen, a former assistant on the men's team at SEMO, is 165-43 in seven seasons, but the Otakians have never made it out of the regionals despite qualifying six of the seven seasons.

Arlington open to public on Tuesdays, Fridays

By Jim Woodcock

Staff writer

Golf made moves in the late 1980s to become the sport of the '90s, which is why David Knollman found it necessary to see Arlington's Golf Course somewhat unoccupied twice a week.

Knollman, the president of the private club, recently acted to correct that when he announced that the new course will now be open to the public on Tuesdays and Fridays.

Knollman, of Granite City, said the move marks the first time the course will be open to non-member golfers outside of high school and senior citizen leagues. The new policy is effective immediately.

"Historically, those days have been our slowest," Knollman said. "It was a shame to just have the course sit there. So we decided to open it to the general public. The golfers from Edwardsburg, Collinsville and Granite City are going to enjoy it. It's nearby for them."

Knollman bought the course just more than two years ago with Terry Tessary of Granite City and Nick Jakich of Collinsville. Knollman said the experience has been rewarding, but admits that course maintenance is a bit more costly than he had imagined.

Knollman said opening the course to the public on Tuesdays and Fridays will help generate revenue for the course, and it may encourage golfers to purchase lifetime or supplemental club memberships.

The cost on Tuesdays and Fridays is $13 for 18 holes. Motor carts rental is $15 and pull cart rental is $2.

A lifetime membership is $600. Supplemental memberships are $200 plus half-gross greens fees per 18 holes.

"Three hundred dollars is cheap compared to what you pay at courses in St. Louis," Knollman said. "And we have a beautiful course here. Our 18th hole is "Their intensity is amazing," he said of the Lady Warriors. "We're not comparing apples to apples when we say that, but we've picked up to now to Granite City. We do seem to have an overwhelming desire to score, though, and I hope it carries over."

Flood Realty in top 10

Flood Realty Center, a local real estate firm, has achieved national recognition for placing in the top 10 percentile of more than 8,500 real estate firms across the country.

The honor, from the National Statistical Research Company of Chicago, is based on a computer analysis of hundreds of thousands of questionnaires sent to recent home buyers asking for an evaluation of the service they received from the real estate firm that handled their transaction.

Flood Realty scored well above the national average when more than 8,500 real estate companies across the country were surveyed. The customers were asked to evaluate the service provided, and the overwhelming majority of Flood Realty customers responded that the service was good or excellent.

This is the second year in a row Flood Realty has received this industry honor.

The National Statistical Research Company was founded in 1968 to assist the real estate industry in offering better service to customers.

Auto parts dealer stocks hard-to-find parts — even some for Studebakers

GRANITE CITY — To most auto part chains and shopping centers, Studebakers are not worth the effort to greet with laughter. But when Bill Houser of Houser Automotive got a call asking if he could locate a fuel pump for a 1958 Studebaker, he didn't even flinch.

As a matter of fact, he had the part in stock.

With many of the new mid-size automobiles costing around $12,000, it isn't unusual that many people are going to great lengths to squeeze as many miles as possible out of their present cars, although not all model or not.

With many people don't realize, though, is that there is no such thing as a standard auto part, Houser said.

Whether your car is a Ford, Honda, Chrysler or even a Studebaker, one water pump or gasket will fit another manufacturer's model, and often they change from year to year, same model or not.

According to Houser, who's owned and operated his Granite City-based business for nearly 35 years, there's an incredible demand for these increasingly specialized auto parts.

But many auto parts chain stores and small suppliers simply don't have the space or resources to stock anything but the most frequently requested items.

"Go into any of the big-name auto parts stores and you'll have no trouble finding belts and filters if you have one of the more popular car models," Houser said. "But if it's not more than 10 years old,"

His business continues to grow even after 35 years because people know we are one of the few suppliers in a 200-mile radius that can supply not only the basics but the hard-to-find items as well."

Houser said two factors are the main reasons why his independent business is able to supply what stores with nationwide resources cannot — size and space.

"Back in the '60s I realized that we were paying a lot of money to have someone else do it for us. So I started buying direct from the manufacturers, even setting up our own tractor trailers to ship the inventory to us."

The other reason, he said, is size.

Located near the downtown area of Granite City, Houser's has acquired several parcels of property over the years all within walking distance of the store. He said he has a hardware store, and much of which now warehouses his vast supply of stock.

Through the various buildings, the business totals nearly 50,000 square feet of warehouse and storefront space.

A solid inventory system keeps Houser abreast of everything he has in stock, but occasionally even he is surprised at how much.

"A few weeks ago we had a customer who was completely rebuilding the engine for a late '40s model Chevy. I figured we'd be able to help him out of the stuff, but after a little digging through the warehouse we found everything he needed. I don't know which of us was more surprised."

Although it's certain well-known for its inventory of parts, Houser's first made its mark in the St. Louis area for its engine and transmission rebuilding for passenger cars as well as light to heavy trucks.

One of the first major contracts the company had was rebuilding and repairing vehicles for Granite City Steel.

A familiar sight to Madison Avenue motorists.

At the time, Houser's was a Cities Service Station operating out of a four-bay gasoline/auto service station.

Since that time, the business has expanded into retail sales and warehouse distribution, supplying not only the St. Louis metropolitan area but much of the Midwest as well.

"Many suppliers are surprised that an independent business such as ours can be so competitive."

But because of our long-term relationships and our warehouse capabilities, we can even supply some of the large discount chain stores throughout the area."

About 10 years ago, Houser expanded on his original success by adding a complete auto repair facility (it had been located in the back of the parts store) along with a complete drive line building shop, one of only a handful in St. Louis.

Still, for a relatively "small" business, Houser's name is becoming well-known for its specializations and resources.

"I got a call a couple of months ago from a guy in Washington, Mo., who was looking for a fuel pump for an early '70s Ford Econoline. It had an unusually big engine so he was having a real hard time finding the parts he wanted to buy in Washington. I had heard of us and told him to call," said Houser.

"When I told him we had it, he asked me to hold it for him and about two hours later he was here to pick it up. He'd driven everything and driven all the way up from Washington just to get the part."

Working seven days a week since opening the business in 1955, Houser is clearly a man who enjoys his work. When asked about the most difficult part he had to locate, he related a story about an elderly Ohio woman passing through this area on her way to Oklahoma.

"The generator on her 1951 Cadillac had gone out. The attendant at the gas station where she stopped told her it probably couldn't be fixed because cars have had generators for several years now."

"He made a few calls around, though, and three of the places told him to call us."

"We had the part, but since it was a Sunday none of our mechanics were working. The woman was on her way to see relatives so I told her if she could wait until the next day, I'd put it in myself — but that it might take awhile because I'd have to do it between waiting on customers."

"We finally got it done, though, and about a week later I got a letter from her from Oklahoma thanking me and saying the car had done just fine," he said, smiling like a man who knows the feeling of having done a good deed.

Illinois S&L institutions report profit in 1989

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois savings institutions reported a combined net profit of $27 million in 1989, according to the Office of Thrift Supervision, it was reported by the Illinois League of Savings Institutions.

The profits, led by the Illinois thrift industry during the first half of the year exceeded the losses recorded during the second half and resulted in a net profit for the year, said League President J. Dennis Montgomery.

The aggregate quarterly net income (loss) of the Illinois savings institutions for the first through fourth quarters of 1989 totaled $27 million, $56 million, ($57 million) and ($4 million), respectively.

Montgomery said that much of the loss reported in the second half reflected operating losses as they sold out at a loss, or made provisions for losses. Large expenses due to the amortization of good will also held down operating income during the last half of the year.

The fourth quarter earnings report reveals that Illinois thrifts solvent under generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) earned $61 million during the quarter. However, Illinois GAAP insolvent institutions lost $115 million during the period, resulting in the quarter's $54 million loss.

In the GAAP solvent category, fourth quarter $61 million net profit was the nation's highest.

It was the sixth consecutive profitable year for the Illinois thrift business.

Illinois thrifts in 1989 ranked ninth nationally in combined net income. Among the top 10 savings institution states, Illinois ranked third, surpassing only Ohio and Michigan. Ohio S&Ls led the nation last year with an aggregate yearly net income of $105 million.

The Illinois League of Savings Institutions is the statewide trade association which serves the state's 242 savings institutions.

The flower girl was Annie Barron, a cousin of the groom, and the ushers were James Blaylock, Joe Boushard and Marine Pfc. Craig Yager.

A reception was held at the church.

After a short stay in Granite City, the couple is now residing in Vista, Calif.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Granite City High School. She attended Belleville Area College and is now enrolled at Palomar College near San Diego.

The groom is a 1989 graduate of Granite City High School. He completed U.S. Marine Corps Boot Camp and the Cryptologic Technician Communications course at the Naval Technical Training Center in Corry Station, Pensacola, Fla. He is currently a Communications operator at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Mystery enjoyed by fire auxiliary

That was the question that arose in the minds of the Ladies of the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary on March 11, when they departed from St. Louis on the "Amtrak Murder Mystery Tour."

Participants played the roles setting the scene for the unsolved murder. A re-enacted murder was played aboard the train, with the murderer being unfurled during a dinner stop in Lincoln, Ill.

The event was enjoyed by auxiliary members Evelyn Springer, Vicki Mabel Kennerly, Bridget Ashford, Corrine Kreiter, Etta Rutherford, Renee Arnold, Diana Goodman, Margaret Sugg and Diana Nancy.

During dinner, Etta Rutherford presented a gold chain and charm bracelet signifying 20 active years with the Ladies Auxiliary.

'Art from Trash' contest winners

An "Art From Trash" contest was held for the first grade pupils of Bobbie Dallas at Harris School on March 28-30.

The winners were: first place, James Murphy for a cereal box robot; second place, Barry Lovett for a hot air balloon; and third place, Faith Taylor for a limousine.

The idea for the contest came about after the class read a Weekly Reader article, dealing with the problem of trash every day and how America needs to find new ways to get rid of trash.

Projects were displayed in the hallway at Harris School. Among the judges were the school principal, a first grade teacher, a speech teacher and Angela Davis, a third grade student.

The Good Friday fish fry will be held at the Madison AMVETS Post Home on Kennedy Drive from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. April 13, it was announced at the Madison AMVETS Auxiliary 20th anniversary.

At the fish fry, two pieces of Atlantic cod, homemade spaghetti, slaw, dessert and coffee will be served for a $4 charge.

Twenty-two students attended the meeting and began planning a yard sale on May 12 at the Post Home. Also discussed were a tour and visits made last week by both the national and auxiliary presidents throughout the region.

The child welfare chairman displayed stuffed toy bears which will be presented to children who are to undergo surgery at the local hospital during Easter week.

Eight members went to Jefferson Barracks Veterans Hospital to conduct bingo games during March for the patients who are incapacitated with spinal injuries, the hospital chairman reported.

Cash prizes amounting to $200 were distributed during the games and refreshments were served by the women.

A quilt raffle was held on St. Patrick's Day with the winner receiving an embroidered beige and brown quilt, it was announced.

Donations were authorized to the scholarship fund; the John Tracy Clinic for children with hearing problems; and Target Dotti, which represents grants given to help children needing assistance, whether medical or financial.

Nomination of officers was accepted before the meeting concluded.

Nancy Clofelter entertained the Madison Minerva Reading Club for its monthly meeting at her home on April 5.

Loretta McGee served as co-hostess and a potluck dinner preceded the meeting.

The Lord's Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance were recited and reports were given by Mary Moore, secretary, and Karen Purkape, treasurer.

Roll call was answered with plans for the summer months.

Also discussed were plans to provide presents to two high school students.

The program was given by Karen Purkape, who described her trip to Chaco Canyon National Monument in New Mexico.

The group's annual "fun night" will be held during the May meeting at Ravanelli's Restaurant.

Also in attendance were Ida Dant, Donna Dorris, Velda Taylor and Irene Orr.

Kathy Dohnal covers the Madison-Venice scene for the Press-Record Journal. She can be contacted at 877-1026.

Seek fund-raising cookbook entries

EVERY ISLAND L.A. non-profit organizations which produced a fund-raising cookbook in 1989 or 1990 may submit their books for "TABASCO Community Cookbook Awards," a new national cookbook competition program sponsored by McIlhenny Company.

"Coming from Southwestern Louisiana, we are proud of our heritage and long-standing traditions. Through this award, we encourage everyone to support those organizations which are dedicated to preserving and recording American culinary practices and sponsoring projects to better their communities," said Edward McIlhenny, president of McIlhenny Company.

TABASCO Community Cookbook Awards will be given every other year to the outstanding community cookbooks published in the United States. Six regional winners and three national winners will be chosen. The six regions include Northeastern, Midwestern, Southeastern, Midwestern, Southwestern and Northwestern.

Existing cookbooks produced in other years which have proved sales record of 100,000 copies or over will be eligible for induction into the Hall of Fame. Since 1985, the former president of McIlhenny Company and internationally recognized connoisseur, the Hall of Fame book collection will be housed on Avery Island, headquarters of McIlhenny Company and birthplace of TABASCO pepper sauce. Nearly 100,000 visitors come to the Island each year. Hall of Fame

'Atomic Cafe' film scheduled at SIUE

The Student Program Board of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will show the film "The Atomic Cafe" April 18 and 19 at 7:30 p.m.

The 1982 film, which assembles newsreel footage and government-archived expressions of alarm over the imminent nuclear war to the American public like a new brand of laundry detergent."

The film, directed by Kevin Rafferty, Jayne Loader and Peter Raymont, will be shown in the Deja Vu Room at SIUE's University Center. There is no admission charge.

The ins and outs of bunny baskets

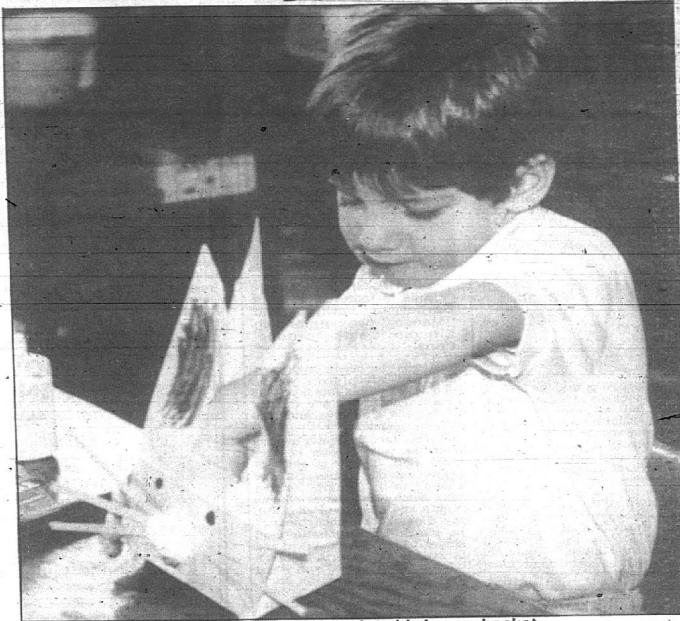

Students in Mrs. Seiz's morning kindergarten class at Holy Family Parochial School made their own bunny baskets Wednesday in hopes that the Easter Bunny will fill them with goodies Sunday morning.

Elizabeth Dochwat, 5, works with her basket, making sure it's just right.

Thomas Harrington, 5, puts easter grass into his bunny basket.

Zachary Coulter, 7, very carefully colors his bunny's ears pink to complete his basket.

Kara Dusky, 6, puts the whiskers on her bunny.

Paul Eichenseer, 5, readies his basket for the nose.

Morning news on 2 needs time, maturity

The entry of KTVI-TV (Channel 2) into the morning news race has not made much of an impact.

"Early Morning," the half-hour newscast at 6:30 a.m., is attracting only about 10 percent of the audience at that hour, unless, of course, the audience is looking for "Today in St. Louis" on KSDK-TV (Channel 5).

The program probably needs time to grow; it only came on the air March 5.

But the placement too many of the people involved in the newscast seem out of place. Tom O'Neal is competent as one of the co-anchors, although he was far superior video and an eye-witness interview.

But the quality of reporting never has been Channel 2's problem. It is a problem of presentation.

Certainly not everything Channel 5 is blessed. A live interview, Blome did on the subject of athletes with disabilities was a great idea. But when the interview touched on local blind athletes who throw the javelin and discus and wrestle, there was no video. Instead, there was stock video of disabled athletes in the Olympics. I wanted to see how blind athletes aim the javelin and the discs.

The other co-anchor on "Early Morning," Jim Auble, worked on the assignments desk for Channel 2 and acted as a reporter on special assignments such as the murder trials of Paula Sims. Auble habitually worked with his feet locked at the chair when he filed stories. Perhaps keeping his tie tight as an anchor makes him feel uncomfortable.

Meteorologist Sam Vincent is painless to watch on the morning newscast. It is possible to watch a couple of minutes of Vincent and have absolutely no idea what he is talking about. Perhaps he is blessed with relentless efforts to be witty and work hard on explaining the weather.

By comparison, Channel 5's "Today in St. Louis" gives a viewer the feeling that Channel 5 has been doing a good job of getting it more nearly right. Anchor Jennifer Blome is competent; anchor Art Holliday, who left sports for the news desk, has made a good transition; and Jim Hahn, who reports the weather, does a good job.

The content of the two programs is similar: lots of weather and traffic reporting on both channels (Channel 5's traffic grid is better). A review of top local news stories, some sports highlights and a couple of features.

There is a lot of repetition, which seems appropriate when you consider the much of the audience is probably doing a lot besides watching television at that hour.

Considering the two presentations on April 9 underlined some of the contrasts. Blome and Huff (Holliday had the day off) showed a nice easy presence.

Dave Strauss co-hosts "Trivia Spectacular" from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday on KMOX-AM (1220).

Ian MacBryde

while the Channel 2 folks made it even a lot more difficult.

Channel 5's Tom Davis had a much better report on a Phantom jet accident than did Channel 5's Jeann Jackson. Davis had far superior video and an eye-witness interview.

But the quality of reporting never has been Channel 2's problem. It is a problem of presentation.

Certainly not everything Channel 5 does is blessed. A live interview, Blome did on the subject of athletes with disabilities was a great idea. But when the interview touched on local blind athletes who throw the javelin and discus and wrestle, there was no video. Instead, there was stock video of disabled athletes in the Olympics. I wanted to see how blind athletes aim the javelin and the discs.

Channel 2, on the other hand, provided "Max Leber's Corner Drugstore" equipment, the value of vitamin E, a report by the pharmacist with some interesting, if inconclusive information.

But Channel 2 also gave us Vincent, who, after lamely trying to explain something was going on in the atmosphere, turned hopefully to a weather graphic and said: "Maybe you can make some sense out of this." Nope. I couldn't figure that out either. ***

Although management will not confirm a date for a newscast, Steve Matthews of Channel 2 said the station plans to re-establish a 6 p.m. newscast this year, probably in the fall.

Channel 2 abandoned the time slot to "Geraldo" in September 1988 because of low ratings. Perhaps with that in mind, the station has been wooing at least one anchor candidate, a woman, from another market. It seems that Channel 2 has decided that to compete effectively it will have to add a strong performer to its anchor staff.

Ian MacBryde is an independent video producer and former television executive.
